The Challenges We Face Today—social and environmental injustice, climate change, precarious work, surveillance, and a shrinking public sphere—are big, complex, and multifaceted. Among their many other dimensions, they are questions of communication and culture, which demand urgent engagement. The PhD in Communication, New Media, and Cultural Studies (CNMCS) is for creative students who embrace complexity, love difficult questions, and hunger for intellectual, artistic, and pedagogical risk-taking driven towards positive social change.

Communication, New Media & Cultural Studies
- Study in a program that uniquely combines communication studies, cultural studies, and new media practice.

Independent Research & Creation
- Develop your research and practice, mentored closely by faculty actively engaged in cultural, communications and media arts research.

Funded Positions
- Competitive funding packages included. All students admitted to the program are funded.
- Gain experience working as a Teaching Assistant or Research Assistant.

Application Deadline: January 15

csmm.mcmaster.ca
905.525-9140 ext. 27575
gradcnm@mcmaster.ca